Harrison on the Tin Plate Industry

PITTSBURG, Oct. 21.-Last week, W. C. Cronemyer, of the United States Iron and Steel Tin Plate works, at Demmler, Pa., sent President Harrison a box of tin manufactured at the Deminler works. This morning Cronemyer received the following letter from President Harrison: "Washington, October, 19th. My dear sir: I have your letter of October 15th, and also the box of bright tin plate which you sent as a specimen of the product being turned out by the United States Iron and Tin Plate Company. Anaconda Copper Mine to Open By Associated Press.]

Cmcago, Oct. 21.-A special dispatch from Butte City, Montana, says: Within the next ten days the famous Anaconda Copper Mine will be in full blast. Last spring the mine shut down; two reasons were given for this; one was that Haggin, believing he owned and controlled the bulk of the copper in the world, closed down in order to corner it; the other reason was, that the railroad which rons from anaconda over to Butte, a distance of twenty-five miles. had conclided to charge Haggin its own rate for conveying ore from the mine at Butte to Anaconda, and returning the product ready for market, from Anaconda to Butte. This Haggin would not consent to, and he closed the mine. From what is considered a pretty reliable source, information has been received, that within the next ten days 2000 men will be put to work on the construction of a new line, from Butte City to the smelters. This being done, a new road will be built from Boise City, the intention being to extend it ultimately to the Pacific

A project was started sev eral weeks ago to get up a public sub-scription in Mr. Nash's behalf but was not followed, it being thought by many to be more consistent if the county, for the general weal of the public in whose service Mr. Nash nearly lost his life, should assume the obligation.

NO WIRES IN PARIS.

Behind in the Matter of Munic

It should be noted that the question how to dispose of wires—a question that makes so vast and so continually recurring an agitation in all American cities-never comes up at all in Paris, and is seldom mentioned in any European city. There are, says a writer in the Century, absolutely no obstructive wires in Paris. The government has purchased the telephone as well as the the traph system, and all the wires for these services are placed in the sub-ways of sewers. The wires of the electric companies are buried under the silewalks. Armored cables are laid in simple conduits, or even in the bare soil, without the slightest difficulty from any point of view. In crossing streets it is forbidden to break the paving, and underground connection is made from the manholes of the sewers. The whole city of Paris will have been laid with a network of electric lighting cables a few months hence, and traffic on the sidewalks and in the streets will have suffered a minimum of obstruction, while no injury whatsoever will have been done to pavements. All these minor questions of practical municipal attacking in a fumbling, rude, original way, heedless even of the experiessely and contentedly ignorant of the experience of foreign cities, have been thoroughly, solved in Europe. Instead of leading the van, we are from ten to fifteen years behind Europe in all these matters. Even in nal and apparently practicle. BEECH'S TEA-PURE AS CHILCHOOD.

To Tea Drinkers!

Probably three-fourths of the teas consumed are "Green Teas." Unpleasant as the fact may be, the bright shiny green so familiar to us all, is not the natural color, but is due to the facing or glazing of the tea with Prussian Blue. Indigo and other mineral colors.

That coloring hides the effects of poor teas is undoubted; but is it healthful, and does it not call loudly for the importation of a brand of pure, uncolored, unmanipulated tea?

It was this condition of affairs that prompted the placing of Beech's Tea before the public Being the absolutely pure uncolored leaf, it is different in color from any you ever used. It draws a canary color of a delightful fragrance that is a revelation to tea drinkers, and its purity makes it more economical than the artificial teas, less of it being required per cup. A PLEASANT TRIP.

Account of the Trip of Professor Miller's Class to Pyramid Lane as Written Up by "One of the Party.'

Wah-hoo! N. S. U.! Rah! Rah! 'Varsity!' Who are they? Don't display your ignorance of University matters by not knowing our war-hoop. We keep it for State occasions and jolly good times in general, and this was surely one of them. Even the weather clerk, surly to many, smiled on us, and though Thursday looked threatening, Friday was as lovely as a day in June, and proved out a type of the four days following. And why shouldn't Nevada smile on her sons when they were engaged in so good a work, studying her dear old features more closely that they might owe their studying her dear old leatures more closely that they might owe their knowledge not alone to books.

Early Friday a. M. behold us, a merry set of fourteen, the geology class with its instructor, two ladies as guests, and last but not least, one driver and goide, all en route to Pyramid Lake. Over the hills we went, now stopping to take our clevation or to beg a chip from some old rock, or perchance to study some curious formation.

The novelty, the charm of motion The novelty, the charm of motion through the golden sunshine made the way very short to the Junction, where we called a halt for lunch. Through the courtesy of Mrs. Odett we had a table and hot cup of tea, so our roughing it had not yet begun. But how good that lunch tasted. Never was home made bread and awaret butter with danty slicks of sweet butter, with dainty slices of ham, appreciated more. In fact, an epicure would have been delighted with our fare the whole four days. About 1 'o'clock we mounted to our seats and gave our good-bye in the shape of a rousing University yell. From there to the lake our chief interest was in tracing the incrustations left by the old lake Labontin, which

About 4 o'clock we came into full view of the beautiful lake, and then who so pleased as we? "Deeply, darkly, beautifully blue," with silvery ripples, where the wild fowls, the only navigators save the Indians, left a trail behind them as they flew low, frightened by the sportsmen of our party. Down by the water's edge a snow-white band encircled the whole lake—deposits of carbonate from its blue waters. Above rose the mounblue waters. Above rose the mountains, neutral in tint, and then the "blue over all." A hush came over ue-a silent homage to Nature and Nature's God.

Five miles up the lake we came to our camp, "The Willows." With hearty good will we all got to work and soon our camp fire sent up its signal of coming good times, and then dinner. And now the moon came to greet us and every prosaic detail changed into beautiful parts of the fairylike scene. Out on the water next and the echoes blended their sweet notes with our songs. Ah! that first night out in the beautiful moonfirst night out in the beautiful moon-light; who will forget it?

Seven o'clock came early the next-morning but found the men of the party ready for their long ride to the head of the lake. Eleven miles from nead of the lake. Eleven miles from camp we stopped at Simons' ranch and anew were convinced that nowhere is hospitality greater that in Nevada. Two buckets of apples filled our pockets and gladdened our hearts and we cheered our host right lustily. Within three miles of the Needles the reads because too heavy for our team. roads became too heavy for our team, so, shoes in hands, we started for our walk over the sand. These needles walk over the sand. These needles are vast crystalline deposits and with the pyramid opposite the Willows gave the name to the lake. Between two of the pyramids is Bean Bay, so called from its shore of white bean-like pebbles. Of course we climbed the tallest needle and there left the names of the whole party.

A little more study and then away for camp, which we did not reach until eight o'clock. The ladies had not

After a stay of three hours—all too short a time—we bade our hosts goodbye and started for Wadsworth where cations overlaid by the quarternary, and note books came into active service. Night came too soon for us and made the last two hours driving exciting enough to be interesting. We began to think we had missed the way, when the lights of Wadsworth suddenly lightened the night, and we found a good place to camp by the river. By universal consent we dined up town and then turned in for a good night's rest. Morning again, and the last day of our trip. A short visit to one of our University students who has been very ill, a sainte to Captain Warner who was on his way home, and we were off for Reno. Up the mountain, down the valley, through sand and over hard road—all on the banks of the river we love—the beautiful blue Truckee, and then we stopped for our last camp meal. This day proved no anti-climax, but rounded the whole trip into a perfect success. Seven o'clock saw us safely in Reno and we greeted our home with our University cry, "Wah-hoo, N. S. U." Such a good time with the knowledge gained makes us eager for another trip.

A WONDERFUL INVENTION,

Winter before last, Jake McKissick had, under the care of Charley Worland, formerly of Reno but now of Montana, eleven thousand sheep in four bands located in Duck Valley. One of the bands was in charge of foreman Wm. Ross, commonly called "Governor."

As the wintry winds began to blow and snowflakes clouded the sky, the "Governor" repeatedly advised Mr. Worland to move the sheep some 1,500 feet lower, out of the snowy belt. He was met with the order to not remove them until the snow was a foot deep. The wintry flakes increased inch by inch, and the "Governor," despite his orders, determined to move his band westward and downward to the pla-westward and downward to the pla-teau of safety in the valleys below.

Nevertheless, there is an old adage among sheepmen "to obey orders even if you break owners," and with metaphysical wit, he determined on a plan to carry sheep orders on both shoulders. As the snowfall near the mountains was heavier them in the mountains was heavier than in the valley, Governor Ross had his campender to carefully measure its depth every morning and move the sheep west and downward, accordingly, as ts depth should not be over a foot.

Six of the eleven thousand finally arrived in safe quarters, including 1800 ewes belonging to Jas. Sullivan, and Charley Worland had to report their loss to Uncle Jake, which broke him all up. The novelty of the scheme, however, whereby Ross obeyed orders and at the same time saved over half of his sheep in that terrible winter, by moving sidewise in strips, caused a vein of invention to Worland, who has drifted north to Montana and is now interested in sheep ventures.

A letter recently received here from him states that he is about to receive a patent on a sheep and cattle travers-ing snow-plow. Whenever his flock or herd is foundered in snow, he will start his plow and make to earthbed start his plow and make to earthbed a deep, wide trench a mile or two in length, in which the animals may leisurely crop the sagebrush and other nutritious vegetables. Protected by the windows of snow from both wind and coyotes, the sheep can mulch their fodder undisturbed. Meanwhile his men will be preparing a similar trench adjoining, for the next day's occupancy, and by this simple and convenient method he will work ten thousand head of sheep, trench by trench, through Montana and into Litah—all according to Col. Irish's Utah—all according to Col. Irish's weather prophesies furnished through the signal bureau day by day.

The plow will be fifteen feet wide and be able to remove a depth of five feet of snow, leaving the wild and white sage exposed, and Mr. Worland anticipates making a fortune out of it, besides enjoying the pleasure of drift-ing with the snowflakes every winter, to and fro, through the grand moun-tain scenery of this elegant western

One That Will Put the Scientists in a Quandary.

The Novel Provision Made by a French Nun in Her Will-A Fortune for the One That Communicates

A recent Paris cablegram cays & French nun has willed 100,000 francs to the academy of science, to be given as a prize to anyone who shall discover any means of communicating with another world, planet or star. The planet Mars was suggested in the will as the most convenient beavenly body on which to make the experiment.

"This proposition may seem ridielous, but it is not any more so than the idea of James Lick, the founder of the Lick observatory," said a man well versed in starry lore.

"The Lick bequest to build the great telescope was intended to establish the fact whether not the moon is inhabited. Now let us consider the difficulties in the way of this project. The distance of the earth from the moon may be stated in round numbers as 240,000 miles. It is a fact recognized in military science that a man can be fairly distinguished by the eye at a mile's distance. In making calculations regarding vision it is the general rule to estimate that to be seen a mile away an object must be half a yard wide. The best telescope has a magnifying power of 2,000 diameters. Half the distance to the moon is 120,000 miles. Divide this by 2,000, the magnifying power of the glass, and you get sixty yards as the minimum size of an object in the moon discernible by the aid of the telescope from the earth. So an object must be 180 feet wide or thick to be more than an appreciable dot. I have made the most liberal allowances in this computation. The atmospheric conditions must be perfect and 2,000 is an unusually high power to be used by a working

"If an object must be 180 feet thick to be seen from the earth on the moon it would be best to make it 200 feet. To give the inhabitants of the moon an idea that there are intelligent beings on earth it would be necessary to place, say, three objects in view of the moon's people, let them remain for a time arranged at the angles of a triangle. Then they might be changed so as to be in a straight line. The man in the moon seeing these phenomena might conclude that there were intelligent beings on earth and arrange for some corresponding signal to the inhabitants of earth. But while this seems possible it shows how preposterous would bethe attempt to determine with the most powerful telescope now in use whether the moon is inhabited.

"Now, as to the proposed communication with Mars. At the time when Mars and the earth are nearest to each other-are in perihelion-the distance is in round numbers 35,000,000 of miles. Take half this distance and you have 17,500,000 as the number of yards that represents the size of an object in Mars hat could be seen that distance with naked eye. Divide this by 2,000, the er of the biggest telescope, and you ave 8,750 as the size of the smallest object plainly discernible at such a dis-

So it would be necessary to construct an object, to be discernible on the earth from Mars, say twenty miles in diameter. It might be circu lar in form. Other structures not inferior in size would have to be erected at distances of not less than twenty miles from each other. Then after these had remained for a time their relative positions might be changed. These odies, moreover, to be clearly distinguished from the surface of Mars. must be intensely luminous. A solid ball of electric light twenty miles in diameter would suffice.

"Considering the size of the structure required, their distance from each other and the necessity of changing their places to indicate to a man in Mars that these luminou; structures were the result of intelligent action are not natural phenomena! The sum be-queathed by the French nun may be seen to be greatly inadequate. The Academy of Science at Paris may for this reason refuse to accept the bequest. If the sum were offered for a prize essay on some plan for accomplishing communication with a sister sphere it would be more reasonable. "In all the above computations it mu t not be forgotten that all the conditions must be favorable, the atmosphere as well as the relative positions of the earth and Mars. Such perfect concitions happen only once in a great

· How to Get Rich.

The art of money getting, according to the late P. T. Barnum, is summed up hereunder: "Don't drink; don't be above your business; don't mistake your vocation; select the right location; avoid debt; persevere; whatever you do, do with all your might; depend upon your own personal exertions; use the best tools; don't scatter your powers; be systematic; read the newspapers; beware of outside operations; don't in ware of outside operations; don't in-dorse without good security; advertise your business; be polite and kind to your customers; be charitable; don't tell what you are going to do; and preserve your integrity."

A Pennsylvania spinster died recently leaving nothing to her relatives save an old bustle. This they promptly pitched into the fire, but as prompily pulled it out again when they saw a greenback of a large denomination sticking out from one corner. They found a fortune in the bustle.

OUR IMPORTED MISERY. A Complex Problem to Be Worked Out on American Soil.

Mrs. Annie Besant, writing of her American impressions in the boaton Star, says: "I spent some interesting hours tramping about New York slums, contrasting in my mind the terrible poverty with the little less terrible wealth found within the limits of the same city. The misery I saw was chiefly foreign—the streets and houses were filled with Germans, Polish and Russian Jews, Italians, Irish, hapless seekers for the riches that lie at the end of the rainbow where it touches the earth. The public schools of the district told the same story, scarcely an American child being found among the dark-eyed, dark-haired little ones. who have to be taught the language of their adopted country ere their or-dinary education can commence. It is a complex problem which has to be worked out on American soil, this shooting down of foreign waifs and strays into a country which so quickly admits them to full rights of citizenship, the fragments broken by British and continental oppression used for the building of a country that should be noble and free. The steps of the Nemesis which dogs the heels of crime' may be heard all over the civilized world, the citizens of to-day reaping the harvest they sowed so long ago. When, and of what nature shall be the garnering?"

An Astronomical Wonder.

Prof. J. L. Ray, of Ashland, Va., who has been studying the moon through a telescope, says there has recently been extraordinary volcanic action on the planet. He says that on the night of June 22 tremendous energy over the whole surface presented itself. "I saw that what of late have been considered great gray plains are in reality great seas, or else a molten mass, as I saw immense sheets, seemingly of water, thrown through the lunarian atmosphere and find a resting place at least a thousand miles from where they formerly were. I saw several great mountains sink - the whole swayed to and fro and everything in the lunar heavens was in the wildest confusion. I gazed with intensest awe upon this awful spectacle for hours, until the confusion finally subsided and there seemed to be a dead calm as before. I feel confident that the moon was thrown several degrees out of her course, and she is also perceptibly nearer perhaps twenty thousand miles." other actronomer appears to have no-

"August Flower"

Mrs. Sarah M. Black of Seneca, Mo., during the past two years has been affected with Neuralgia of the Head, Stomach and Womb, and writes: "My food did not seem to strengthen me at all and my appetite was very variable. My was yellow, my head dull, and I had such pains in my left side. In the morning when I got up I would have a flow of mucus in the mouth, and a bad, bitter taste. Sometimes my breath became short, and I had such queer, tumbling, palpitating sensations around the heart. I ached all day under the shoulder blades, in the left side, and down the back of my limbs. It seemed to be worse in the wet, cold weather of Winter and Spring; and whenever the spells came on, my feet and hands would turn cold, and I could get no sleep at all. I tried everywhere, and got no relief before using August Flower Then the change came. It has done me a wonderful deal of good during the time I have taken it and is working a complete cure."

FACTS

ABOUT THE TEA WE DRINK.

But few people know that there is such a thing as sun-cured tea in existence, and fewer have seen it. But there is, and it is of all teas the sweetest, purest, and most fragrant. You ask at once how it is that it is not offered for sale and that you know nothing of it. That is once under the green cloak, are readily worked off as a good quality of tea. Thea inable coloring practice even admits of the use of foreign substances, and the English government, which looks closer into the genmineness of its s'aples than ours, has in some of the alleged "fi est" of teas found redried leaves, straw, fragments of matting, rice-husks, and willow leaves. In fact, it is openly stated by an English authority that hundreds of thousands of pounds of sloe, ash, and wil-low leaves am annually imported as tea, which without the coloring process would be impossible. They report tea as one of the most notoriously adviscrated articles of commerce.

The temptation to make sweepings and bad tea into a merchantable product with a few cents' worth of green coloring matter is too strong to withstand, and the worthlessness of the trash that often finds its way to this market labeled "New Crop," "Best Quality," "Green Tea," etc., would simply astound the public if revealed, to say nothing of the unhealthfulness of the Prussian blue, plum-

Black Teas. The basket and pan-fired Japan tees, as well as the Chine teas that may be included under the general heading of "black teas," get their from the firl g or toasting process, bu mineral coloring matter is also frequently used to give a certal a desired commercial appearance. The firing and the coloring, as in the green teas, largely conceals the iden-tity of the tea and permits the use of the very cheapest teas, to argue nothing for the deteriorating effect of excessive firing, which must be resorted to when a very cheap product is used and an extreme color desired. Beech's Tea (Sun-dried).

Concerning san-dried test the people of the Pacific Coast have heard but little and know ess, although it is extensively used where it is known and understood. We are told that when tea's so poor it cannot be sold at home or safely shipped to the English markets, it is shipped to America; that we will drink anything. That may possibly be one of the reasons we have not been offered sun-dried teas They were good enough to send elsewhere.

The sun-dried teas being sun-cured, no coloring matter is used, hence nothing but pure tea leaves can be employed; for unassisted by manipulation or coloring, all atforeign leaves or material would be hold and glaring. That It is, therefore, sweeter and far more fragrant than the artificially colored green ceas and the manipulated basket or pan-fired teas, you hardly need be told. That it is more healthful than the mineral-colored you have never seen it. There is not so much profit in it as there is in the chesp adulter teas, is also apparent. That it is more expen sive, is also true; and that is another reason ated and colored teas. About the Cost of Teas. According to the custom-house reports, the amount of tea received at San Francisco last year (1890) was 6,840,137 pounds, and the value $356,290, or a fraction over 13c per pound. The consumer, of which the reader was one, paid for that I'm ten all the way from 50c to $1 per pound. In other words, for that $956,256 worth of tea the consumer paid between four and five millions of dollars. There are you enormous profits, and there you will probably find the chief reason why most of you never heard of a run-dried tea. As the sun-dried teas have no mask, they are compelled to be absoartificially colored and manipulated teas. Hence the margins on them are smaller, and many dealers don't care about handling them, and you know nothing about them. But it is the object of this article to tell you where you can get them, and what to ask for, and all about them. "Beech's Tea." "Beech's Tea," gua-anteed to be the pure in-cured leaves, is now offered to the people of the Pacific Coast. It will be a revelatio to you. You doubtless never saw any na nral leaf. Have your grocar break open a packaga. It will be found in color to be just between the artificially colored green and the black tess, and the drawn tes presents a clear, brilliant canary color, of delightful fragrance. It is offered to the people at 60c per pound, the same price that many artifi-cially colored teas are sold for. But its guaranteed purity makes it more economical to use; for a less quantity, say about twenty grains, is required per cup. As there are 7,680 grains to a pound, there will be seen to be between three and four hundred caps to the pound, or at the rate of about one fifth of a cent per cup. Its economy is therefore manifest. It is put up in one pound packages only, in patent air-tight and moisture-proof parchment, with the trade mark that is found ar the bottom of this article plainly printed on the package. It is sold in this form for two reasons; one is, that the original strength and aroma is preserved; and second, there can be no deception, which would be quite possible if it were sold in bulk, without the Caution. Recollect that the margin of profit is so much smaller on Beech's pure sun-dried teas than on the artificially colored teas that you won't get it if tea by any other name can be put off on you. Ask for
